

DIVE WEEK ADVENTURE

LA PAZ, MÉXICO

WELCOME TO PARADISE!

DESTINATION

La Paz, in Baja California Sur (Mexico), is a natural paradise full of marine life, turquoise water beaches and spectacular landscapes that will delight the most demanding travelers.

It is a unique geographical enclave that, among other things, has one of the most interactive colonies of sea lions in the world and is a place of transit for extraordinary species such as whale sharks, dolphins, mobulas, cetaceans and an endless number of marine life.

Its desert landscapes and turquoise blue waters, allow you to enjoy the practice of scuba diving in an unique environment. Not in coincidence, the famous oceanographer Jacques Cousteau called this place the "great aquarium of the world".

ABOUT DIVING IN LA PAZ

In La Paz you can dive all year round, however the months of October to December are traditionally the best season, with excellent visibility reaching 25 m and warmer water ranging between 24 and 30 ° C. During the months of January to September the visibility is lower and the water temperature is colder, reaching 19°C in the winter months.

With the sea lions we can dive all year round except during the months of June, July and August, which is their breeding season. As a general rule, these curious animals are very playful and interactive with divers, making them the main attraction of diving in La Paz. Don't be surprised if they try to play with your regulator, camera or fins by lovingly biting them, as this is the favorite hobby of these finned babies!

La Paz is also home to several wrecks that are usually full of life. Large schools of fish, curious sea turtles, or reef fish are just some of the residents you can find on our wrecks.

All this without forgetting the incredible reefs full of fish of different species that are frequently harassed by cormorants and other birds looking for food.

Finally, during the boat transfers it is relatively common to find dolphins, whales or giant schools of mobula rays, which will undoubtedly complete our days.

THE ACTIVITY

During the five days of diving, we will pick up the group at the fiscal dock of La Paz, located just 10 minutes walking from the hotel Catedral, where we suggest the accommodation.

Each day we will sail between 1 hour and 1:30 to the different dive sites in our panga boats, between 25 and 28 feet, with shade, padded seats, and dry spaces to store backpacks, cameras and other personal items.

Every day we will make two dives, using the surface interval as a transfer from one site to another.

After the second dive we will go to one of the many paradise beaches in the region to enjoy a delicious lunch and rest for a while, before returning to La Paz.

The approximate duration of the daily activity is from 8:30 am to 3:00 pm.

Every day includes
